Every time I try to play a song or a video with the media player I get a error about the CPU. The other thing is that, the cover art is broken on the one that's playing. On the covers that aren't playing, they all have the same broken art. My question is, is there a way to have the media player always open in the full window? I want to see what song I'm listening to or what video I'm watching. I tried to follow the guide but it didn't work. I really like the interface, it's very convenient and easy to use, but it doesn't work as expected. At least not with this version. I tried running it with a fullscreen border activated, and it froze. I tried to reinstall the program, and it won't allow me to do so. I get the following error: "Media Player cannot be repaired. Reason: Unable to repair the media player part of the application. The system cannot find the file specified." Sorry about that, but that's what invention has proposed a method for manufacturing an organic thin film transistor in Japanese Patent Application Publication No. H06-49602. The proposed method comprises a step of preparing an organic semiconductor film on an electrically insulating substrate by a vacuum deposition method; a step of patterning the organic semiconductor film with a photolithographic method; and a step of annealing the substrate to remove the organic semiconductor film in a region where a channel region of the organic thin film transistor is to be formed, to thereby form a channel region of the organic thin film transistor in the region where the organic semiconductor film has been patterned. According to the proposed method, the organic semiconductor film is annealed after being patterned. Therefore, even in a case where the organic semiconductor film is a polycrystalline film, the crystallinity of the patterned semiconductor film can be improved. As a result, there is an advantage that an organic thin film transistor having a large ON current can be formed. However, the conventional method has a problem that a region where the semiconductor film is to be patterned cannot be cleaned well due to deposition of residual photoresist. This problem is described below. In the step of patterning the organic semiconductor film by the photolithographic method, a photoresist is applied to the organic semiconductor film by a spin coating method. Then, the organic semiconductor film is exposed to light using a photomask having an opening corresponding to a region where a channel region of an organic thin film transistor is to be formed. In this case, the photoresist is deposited on a region other than the region where the channel region of the organic thin film transistor is to be formed, because a light shielding film is used for the photomask and a light is shielded. As a result, a
