With the release of Windows 8, Microsoft pulled an unexpected move. Source: freesbie Can I use a custom method on an instance of a data frame? I have a piece of code which would make sense to use on a list of objects or an array, but does not make sense to me when I'm trying to write it on an instance of a data frame. The code should be something like: Set the data frame to use the 'xlim' function on 'ylim' instead of just 'ylim'. I've not really specified how the data frame is laid out, but the data frame contains 3 columns (x, y, ylim). I have two lines of code which I'd like to use on every element of this data frame. This is what I have so far, but I get the following error: Error in xlim
